DETAILED ACTION

1. This office action is responsive to the following communications: Application, filed on 10/30/2000; Preliminary Amendment A, filed on 10/30/2000; Amendment B, filed 04/24/2003.
2. Claims 4-17 are pending in this application. Claims 4, 6-8, 10 and 15 are independent claims. Claims 1-3 have been canceled. Claims 10-17 have been added.
3. The present title of this application is "Apparatus and Method for Manipulating a Touch-Sensitive Display Panel" (as amended).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 4-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Minakuchi et al., U.S. Patent Number 5,844,547, "Apparatus for Manipulating an Object Displayed on a Display Device by Using a Touch Screen", class 345/173.

As per independent claim 4, a portable computer comprising: a frame which can be grasped by a user's hand; (Minakuchi discloses a touch screen device, col. 2, line 64 - col. 3, line 1) a touch panel formed on the upper surface of the frame; (Minakuchi discloses a touch screen as a transparent panel, col. 3, lines 12-20) detecting means for detecting specification of a predetermined area on the touch panel . . . ; (Minakuchi discloses a touch position one set for a thumb, col. 3, lines 55-62) selection means for selecting a processing mode corresponding to the predetermined area . . . ; (Minakuchi discloses a manipulation to be conducted on a displayed object, col. 4, lines 25-35) and execution means for executing a processing in the processing mode . . . (Minakuchi discloses a system controller executed by the CPU, col. 3, lines 22-24, which also sends the display update data and the manipulation type conducted, col. 4, lines 6-16)

With respect to dependent claim 5, graphic processing performs at least one of enlargement, reduction, and rotation. (Minakuchi discloses a push while rotate manipulation, col. 6, lines 36-37)

As per independent claim 6, it is rejected based upon similar rationale as above independent claim 4. (Minakuchi discloses displaying special states selectively for each manipulation, col. 3, lines 49-54)

As per independent claim 7, it is rejected based upon similar rationale as above independent claim 4. (Minakuchi discloses touch discriminator, i.e. interpreter, which discriminates the type of touch, col. 3, line 63 – col. 4, line 5)

As per independent claim 8, a coordinate position input apparatus comprising: a touch panel for outputting a coordinate data of a middle point . . . ; (Minakuchi discloses conducting a manipulation in such a way that the object is pushed off its center, col. 5, lines 38-42) storage means for retaining coordinate position of the two points . . . ; (Minakuchi discloses touch screen information including two sets of coordinates, col. 3, lines 58-59) detection means for detecting a coordinate position . . . ; (Minakuchi discloses determining the type of manipulation based upon the touch report and contents of the display information table and sending display update request to the display controller, col. 6, lines 42-50) and calculation means for calculating a coordinate of one of the two touch points . . . (Minakuchi discloses the display controller reading the information and updating the object by a specified amount, col. 6, lines 51-57)

With respect to dependent claim 9, a second point is touched while a first point is touched, the touch point of the second point is calculated according to a current middle point coordinate position and a previous first point . . . (Minakuchi discloses calculating a object manipulation based upon a center position, col. 6, lines 38-41)

As per independent claim 10, a portable information processing apparatus comprising: a touch-sensitive display panel; means for detecting a first touch point . . . ; and means for detecting a second touch point . . . (Minakuchi discloses a touch report and contents of the display information table for performing various manipulations until a continuous touch end is reported by the touch report, and further discloses a push while rotate manipulation, col. 6, lines 25-50)

With respect to dependent claim 11, the first process relates to moving a predetermined object . . . (Minakuchi discloses a manipulation of pushing an object at a predetermined location, col. 6, lines 41-42)

With respect to dependent claim 12, wherein the second process performs at least one enlargement, reduction, and rotation. (Minakuchi discloses a second manipulation performed after the object has been pushed of rotating the object, col. 6, lines 51-57)

Art Unit: 2672

With respect to dependent claim 13, the first process comprises shifting from a first operation mode to a second operation mode. (Minakuchi discloses a second manipulation performed after the object has been pushed of rotating the object, col. 6, lines 51-57)

With respect to dependent claim 14, the second process comprises an operation indicated on the touch-sensitive display panel as a result of execution of the first operation mode to a second operation mode. (Minakuchi discloses a touch report and contents of the display information table for performing various manipulations until a continuous touch end is reported by the touch report, col. 6, lines 25-50)

As per independent claim 15, and dependent claims 16-17, they are rejected based upon similar rational as above independent claim 10 and dependent claims 13-14 respectively.

Response to Arguments
